

The diversity of media must be maintained. The airwaves belong to the public, to further allow corporate media to gobble up everything in sight would devastate the already poor quality available, particularly in rural areas. One round of deregulation brought us clear channel and it's like. I'd hate to see what another would do.